Course Overview

Anyone interested in developing or improving their leadership skills, qualities, and traits.

Improved performance starts with conducting an honest self-assessment of where you are in your leadership journey.

While it is important seasoned and emerging leaders conduct a 360-leadership Assessment, it is critical in today's fast-paced changing environment that leaders tweak qualities or traits that are no longer serving them. This series is designed to support and help leaders deliver excellent leadership to their staff, direct reports, clients, vendors, suppliers, and community.

Each session will examine the "excellence in leadership principles" where leaders will understand why these qualities/traits are nonnegotiable. Leaders can demonstrate and change the striking statistics and narrative surrounding why people are experiencing hiring remorse, resentment or, quiet quitting, or loud leaving.
